About the Author

Fyodor Dostoyevsky

Fyodor Dostoyevsky was a Russian novelist and philosopher, renowned for his exploration of psychology, morality, and existentialism. Born in 1821, he faced personal struggles, including imprisonment and financial hardships. His novel Crime and Punishment (1866) delves into the mind of Raskolnikov, a young man who commits murder and grapples with guilt and redemption. The novel explores themes of morality, free will, and the human condition, cementing Dostoyevsky's place as a major figure in world literature.

Product Description

Crime and Punishment is a psychological masterpiece that delves into morality, guilt, and redemption. It follows Rodion Raskolnikov, a poverty-stricken student in St. Petersburg, who commits a brutal murder, justifying it as a means to achieve greatness. However, his conscience spirals into torment, leading to paranoia and existential crisis. Through Raskolnikov's interactions with others, including the virtuous Sonia, the novel explores the complexities of human nature and the possibility of salvation through suffering and repentance.
